BREAST IMPLANTS WITH CUSTOM FILLING

The Lucerne Clinic expands its offering with an extraordinary new option in aesthetic surgery: breast implants with custom filling. For the first time, implants can be defined not only by shape and size, but also by their content. Because individuality does not stop at the surface.

The concept has already been implemented for the first time with Larissa Hodgson. As a devoted fan of Justin Bieber, she chose to have her signed keychain integrated into the implant as part of her breast augmentation. This example illustrates how far individualisation in aesthetic surgery can be taken. In addition to form and volume, the focus now also extends to what lies inside the implant.

The idea behind it: a breast augmentation that not only delivers aesthetic results but can also carry personal meaning – or be used purely as a stylistic statement

PROVEN PROCEDURE, NEW APPROACH

The procedure is entirely based on the established method of breast augmentation. The surgical process itself remains unchanged.

The difference lies in the level of personalisation: patients bring their desired item on the day of surgery. It is assessed prior to the procedure and integrated into the implant under appropriate conditions. The only requirement is that the object fits within the implant and meets medical standards.

AVAILABLE NOW

Breast implants with custom filling are available immediately. Interested patients can submit a request including a photo of their desired item. The Lucerne Clinic evaluates each case individually and provides guidance on the next steps.
